

EDITORIAL POLICY – STUDIA UNIVERSITATIS BABEȘ-BOLYAI SOCIOLOGIA

The journal welcomes multidisciplinary and comparative approaches in the fields of sociology, social work, social policies, anthropology, urban and rural studies. Articles that address social issues from Central and Eastern Europe from a global perspective, develop historical comparisons or critical reflections, are particularly appreciated. The core of each thematic issue is composed of research articles with empirical grounding. Methodological discussion papers and book reviews compose distinct sections. A special section entitled Romanian Sociology Today publishes recent research papers relevant for the state-of-art of sociology in Romania.

All articles should be written in English and submitted electronically to studiasociologia@socasis.ubbcluj.ro with CC to studiasociology@gmail.com, respecting the manuscript guidelines and announced deadlines.

Previously published articles are not accepted for publication. Manuscripts cannot be submitted elsewhere for publication while in review for Studia Universitatis Babeș-Bolyai Sociologia, although manuscripts may be deposited on a preprint server.

After receiving a manuscript, the editorial board notifies by e-mail the author in about two weeks on the acceptance for review of the text or its rejection. The editorial board will reject papers that fail to meet academic standards in terms of scientific content and the quality of writing in English. Papers accepted by the editorial board go through a double-blind review process (see review form) that may last several weeks. Papers advised to be rewritten and re-submitted go through a second review. Accepted papers are edited by the journal to meet technical standards. English proofreading and the content of the articles are the entirely authors' own responsibility.
